

Yazmine Laroche

Assistant Deputy Minister, Executive Policies and Talent Management Treasury Board of Canada Secretariat

Yazmine Laroche is the Assistant Deputy Minister, Executive Policies and Talent Management in the Treasury Board of Canada Secretariat. She has over twenty years experience in public policy, program and corporate management, communications and strategic planning, having served in a variety of federal government departments. Ms. Laroche began her public service career as a communications officer with Transport Canada, and held a variety of roles at the Department of Communications. In 1993, Ms. Laroche was appointed Director of Government Business for the Department of Canadian Heritage. She moved to the Canada Information Office in 1996 to assume the position of Director General, Strategic Planning, Policy and Evaluation. In 1999, Ms. Laroche moved to the Department of Canadian Heritage as Executive Director, Portfolio Affairs. She was promoted to the position of Assistant Deputy Minister, Corporate Affairs the following year. In 2004, Ms. Laroche joined the Privy Council Office to develop the Government of Canada's New Deal for Cities. She subsequently moved to Infrastructure Canada where she was ADM, Cities and Communities. In 2007 she became ADM, Special Projects in the Transport, Infrastructure and Communities Portfolio, where she led the reviews of the National Capital Commission and the Canada Post Corporation.

Ms. Laroche is a graduate of Carleton University. She is on the Board of Muscular Dystrophy Canada and a member of the Government of Canada Workplace Charitable Campaign Cabinet.